The new millennium is widely considered to be the age of globalisation, democratisation, and human rights. We live in a knowledge society and in a time of risk and uncertainty. World society is rapidly urbanising and ageing and exhausting its natural resources. It is the interplay of such key trends of the era that calls for a fresh approach to measuring quality of life. This collection of papers presents an innovative approach to evaluating living standards and wellbeing under the new

Quality of Life and the Millennium Challenge - DocCheck

Quality of Life in the New Millennium alludes to a turning point, to a completely new era. It signifies an entirely new concept of quality of life that is subject to very different conditions and premises than in the last century. V. Møller and D. Huschka (eds.) Quality of Life and the Millennium Challenge, 1

The National Ecosystem Assessment of Spain - ecomilenio.es

The main challenge faced by the Millennium Assessment (MA, 2005) was to give meaning to the available information, showing varying degrees of heterogeneity and dispersion, related to ecological systems, social systems and their interactions. Moreover, it was considered necessary to present the results in a simple and pedagogical manner so that they could be understood and applied by a large
